

Christiana Dominguez '01 majored in Government with the Leadership Sequence at CMC. While on campus, she excelled at serving on committees - as many as possible and preferably concurrently - a habit she continues to this day. She served as Student Manager of the Rose Institute and was a serial Ath dinner attendee. She is also a graduate of UC Hastings College of the Law and practiced labor law, representing state employees for over 13 years. Christiana currently serves as a Legislative Advocate for the California Attorney General with a portfolio that includes health care, labor, education, and election law among other issues.

Outside of work, Christiana serves as the leader of the CMCAA Sacramento Chapter and devotes most of her remaining free time to volunteer work with the YMCA of Superior California in Sacramento as both a Board member and long-time leader of local delegations to YMCA Youth & Government, a model legislature and court program for high school students. Christiana lives in Sacramento with her husband, Robert Nicholson, and her daughter, Thomasina, who is named after a character in a play she read in a CMC literature class.
